About the City

Hasselt, the city of taste, is located in the Belgian province of Limburg. Hasselt is the capital and largest city of the Belgian province of Limburg. The city has around 75,000 inhabitants and has a traditional layout with a compact centre on the inner ring road. With its university and colleges, Hasselt is a real student city. You can see this on the streets and in the nightlife. Thursday is a popular night out in Hasselt, where you can benefit from special prices on drinks, both as a student and as a visitor. However, tourists mainly come to Hasselt to shop, visit the sights and enjoy the culinary delights the city has to offer.

Main attractions

- Jenevermuseum: Since 1991, the Jenevermuseum has been producing jenevers and often forgotten liqueurs that have coloured and flavoured our history. Our master distiller bases himself on old recipe books and traditional recipes from our rich museum collection. And you can taste this intangible heritage yourself!

- Abbey of Herkenrode: Herkenrode Abbey is located in Hasselt on an impressive estate with more than 800 years of history. You can hike, bike and discover the heritage here. <https://www.herita.be/en/herkenrode-abbey>

9. Japanese garden

The Japanese Garden of Hasselt is a park in the Belgian city of Hasselt. Designed in the traditional 17th-century style, it was donated to the Belgian city by the city of Itami. It is the largest Japanese garden in Europe.

The garden was designed by the Japanese architect Takayuki Inoue. The garden was built by a group of skilled Japanese gardeners in the early 1990s, and inaugurated on 20 November 1992, after 250 working days.

In Japan, the chrysanthemum is highly symbolic as it resembles the life-giving sun, symbolising long life and good fortune. It is even featured in the imperial coat of arms, gives its name and image to the highest possible knighthood, the 'Supreme Order of the Chrysanthemum', and was the inspiration for the Japanese flag.
